Queen Enid 1st . . .

Reigning over the 1950 Homecoming festivities is Queen Enid I, better known on the PLC campus as Enid Arneson, popular junior from Port Angeles. She was crowned last night by Big John Anderson, mayor of Tacoma.

Her Majesty's regal court is graced by the attendance of two charming princesses—Elaine Simons from Genesee, Idaho, and Hazel Johnson from Anacortes. All are well-known for their engaging personalities and general attractiveness.

With felicitations to Queen Enid and her court, the students, alumni and friends of Pacific Lutheran are out in force to pay homage to their royal choice and to participate in the 21st annual Homecoming program.

All-Time Gladiators

Feted at half-time today will be eleven ex-PLC gridders who were tabbed this week by their fellow alumni as the all-time Gladiator aggregation.

At ends are Earl Platt, '40, and Sig Sigurdson, '41; at tackles, Eldon Kyllo, '47, and George Anderson, '42; guards, Elmer "Pete" Peterson, '48, and George Broz, '40. Don "Bubbles" D'Andrea, '47, holds down center. The all-star backfield consists of Marvs Harshman and Tommervik, '41, at full and half, respectively; Evans "Red" Carlson, '31, at half and Blair Taylor, '40, at quarter.

Honors are nothing new to these grid greats; five captured Little All-America laurels and one garnered All-America recognition. All but one of the 11 played sometime during the 1939-41 epoch.

PLC'S NEW $625,000

CHAPEL - MUSIC - SPEECH BUILDING

PLC grads of the 1925-1940 vintage will vividly recall the days of the Parkland Pebbles—the gravelly clearing behind Old Main where the Gladiators not only practiced but played many of their home games, using fir boughs as goal posts.

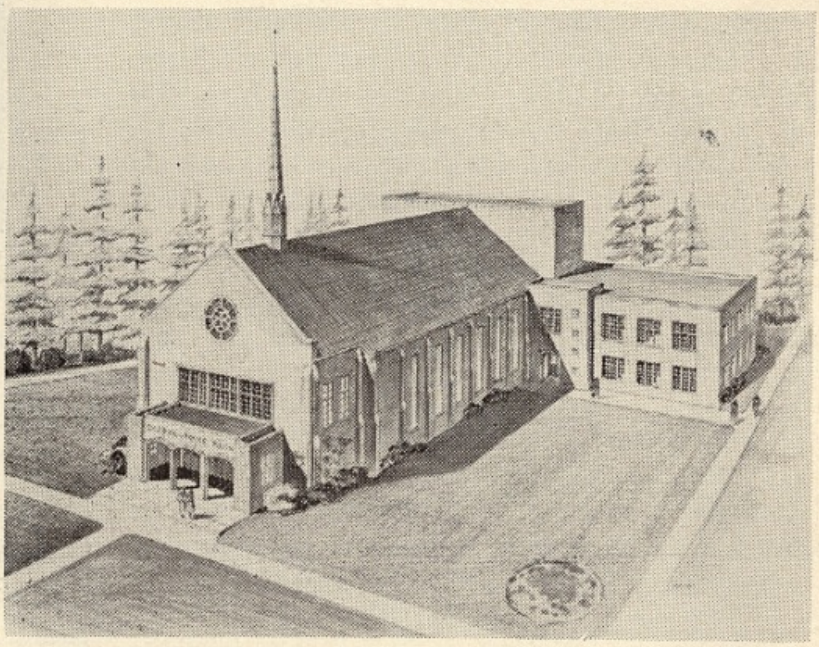

Today there is again a great deal of activity on the spot, but of an entirely different nature. Construction work is proceeding well on the new Chapel-Music-Speech Building, largest building project on the campus since Old Main was dedicated in 1894.

All of the work is being done by Tacoma firms, with Steiro & Hansen doing the general contracting. Weber Plumbing & Heating is installing the modern plumbing and heating facilities, while Raymond Electric is in charge of wiring. The architects are Lea-Pearson & Richards, also Tacoma.

When completed, the building will rank among the best in the Northwest. The auditorium will seat 900 on the ground floor and 300 in the balcony —and the stage will measure 72 by 36 feet. A feature will be a huge pipe organ.

For the music department there will be 14 piano practice rooms, two organ practice rooms, five faculty studios, rehearsal halls for band and choir and a library.

The speech department will have two offices and two classrooms, one of them a first-class radio studio seating 100 persons. Every room will be completely soundproof.

Luthers All Set . . .

Hopes of homecomers, home-towners and undergrads in this Homecoming Classic are the Pacific Lutheran Gladiators, who must win this one or forget all aspirations for the conference crown again this year.

The Marvs have let their charges know that if they look no better today than they did last Saturday, they might as well throw in the towel. The Whitworth Pirates outplayed the Lutefisk-eaters for three full quarters, and it was only a two-touchdown rally in the final four minutes that saved the Gladiator cause.

The Luthers have been drilling overtime every day, rain or no rain, to whip themselves into shape for this week's crucial contest.

The Tommygun has expressed some joy in the way a bevy of frosh have been blossoming in recent workouts. Tackles Bill Tollefson and Bill Waddell, Guards Walt Fitzpatrick, Jerry Kluth and Dick Barclay, Quarterback Frank Karwoski and Halfback Tom Campbell all received kuodes.

Long sessions on the Parkland Prairie have been aimed at brushing up on defensive tactics against Western's devastating single wing, while the offensive corps has been laboring to add some punch to both the running and passing attack.

HARRY MALNES has scored all but one of PLC's touchdowns so far this year.

awesome in recent encounters. The Vikes like to keep the scorekeeper plenty busy.

Sparking the attack is Norm (Corn Beef) Hash, big, pile-driving fullback, WWCE's candidate for all-Evergreen honors. Al Schireman gives Hash adequate relief from the running chores and he can also pitch. Then in Tommy Taylor, the Whatcom Whiz Kids own a southpaw slinger who is a constant threat.

Ahead of these bulldozers operate a powerful phalanx of linemen who manage to rip yawning gaps in the forward walls of the opposing juggernaut. Al Compton and Slats Salsgiver are a pair of grid-wise guards, and at the flank slots, Art Svidran and Hal Kloes do yeoman work.

The defensive platoon, employing Lappenbusch's straight-line defense, is constructed around a big, strong line and a small, jet-propelled backfield. The middle of the line is presided over by Art Larsson, 230-pound Swede.

We are very sorry, but pictures of Western players and coaches arrived too late to be engraved for this program.—Editor.

Bellingham Bruisers Bid for Bacon

Roaring into town on the wave of an imposing record, the league-pacing Vikings will be mighty hard to beat.

Just to demonstrate how casual they are about this game called "football," the powerful Westerns used seven different men to tally seven touchdowns against British Columbia last weekend and used an eighth to boot conversions. The Vikes didn't even get up a sweat as they ran and passed the Thunderbirds dizzy.

Today, with the league silverware almost within their grasp for the first time in more than a decade, the Bellingham Bruisers will be out to dampen PLC's Homecoming festivities.

Architect of Western-style football is Dr. Charley Lappenbusch, controversial tutor who first gained headlines by togging his charges in long underwear and feeding them vitamin pills before crucial games.

The Doc will throw two complete teams against the Luthers this afternoon. He will dispatch a totally new eleven into the fracas every time the hog-hide changes hands.

Lappy's offensive corps has looked fearfully

Chambers of commerce, progress commissions and other similar organizations set up elaborate agencies for dissemination of publicity. That these are effective is easily proved through increased tourist travel, numerous inquiries about the establishment of new industries and homes.

Occasionally, however, something happens which will afford a community more publicity gratis than it could gained by the most careful, expensive plans. One such ample was the fall of the Narrows bridge, which sent the me of Tacoma into the far corners of the world. Though it was a terrible disaster for us, that does not mean that the results will be detrimental. We will have a new

GOLDEN MILESTONE OF THE CENTURY

Homecoming . . .

PLC vs. Western

This is PLC's big Mid-century Homecoming. And seldom in the 21 years the Parkland college has fielded an intercollegiate grid club has there been a game with so much at stake as this afternoon's.

A victory for either PLC or Western would be a big step toward annexing the Evergreen championship, a prize which Eastern and CPS have been hogging for the past two seasons.

Both aggregations have championship fever. Western hasn't captured a flag since 1938. And on the basis of comparative scores the Vikes are three touchdown favorites today. What a battle it should be!

Today we also salute 50 years of progress. Look at the picture above of PLC's 1900 band and then look at the newly-uniformed PLC band of 1950 that is scheduled to make its debut on the field today and you'll see what we mean.
