HOMECOMING '63

A Sketch of Western . . .

Western Washington State College was founded over 60 years ago and has grown rich in tradition and broad in the scope of educational opportunity available to its students.

Western is located in Bellingham, a city of nearly 36,000. Today its campus consists of 102 acres and contains 25 major buildings. The newest of the buildings are the Ridgeway Dorms located above the campus on High Street. There are six coed housing units included in the Ridgeway system. Also included is the new Viking Commons for Ridgeway students which is run by Saga Food Service.

Although there were no new buildings opening this year, new sections of buildings were opened. The new sections are the third floor of the Humanities building which opened just last year. There is also a new addition to the Arts building — an art studio located in the front of the building.

Western will continue to expand in the future, however, as new dorms will continually open throughout the coming years. Also a new campus school is planned as well as new class buildings.

The population of Western has reached a new all-time high of 3800 students, the third highest in the state. The faculty consists of 246 members.

We hope you enjoy your return visit to Western and that you will take time to look over the new as well as the old of Western Washington State College.

Gridiron to Greatness

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Association

It is highly significant that American football is played nowhere else on earth.

Basketball, which Dr. James A. Naismith originated in the gymnasium of the International Y.M.C.A. Training School in 1891, spread around the world and into the Olympic Games. Baseball, which now has been succeeded by American football as this country's national pastime, is played quite well in other lands, especially Japan.

Football, too, is an international game, but it is not the kind we know. In the United States the type of football which draws huge crowds in other countries, is called soccer.

Do you want to know why American football is confined to the U. S.? Well, I'll tell you. It's altogether too rough for those other guys. Other nations just don't possess the rich resources of youngsters who are the crude ore from which is refined the golden boys we see on the field on Friday nights and Saturday afternoons.

In no other land does one find the delicate balance of intelligence, speed, stamina, teamwork, sheer guts and innate sense of fair play that goes into the making of even the lowliest of college scrubs. In no other country would the players of a game stand for being mousetrapped, red-dogged, double-teamed and whatnot in the roughest and toughest sport ever designed.

The kid who climbs into football armor has to be dead game. That's what football players are—knights in armor, the finest athletes in the world. To my mind, football is the greatest thing we have in this country. Youngsters who play football—high school, college or on the sandlots—will never be in need of a public health program.

The attributes of football players are the qualities of leaders, which is the reason the military quickly grabs them in time of war. A game of football is a miniature war. Football and action under fire require courage, discipline and subtle movements. The attributes of football are the qualities that make great nations. The game develops the players' utmost capacity.

Dick Lamb, the historian, screened from football an extraordinary list which includes seven Presidents of our country, 15 who served as members of President's cabinets, two Supreme Court Justices and 30 senators and congressmen.

Included are Chiefs of Staffs, admirals, generals, ambassadors, two dozen governors, 20 college presidents, many heads of business and industry, counselors, judges, eight church prelates and more outstanding successes in other lines, including the entertainment field, than you could shake a stick at.

Although Dwight David Eisenhower's football career was halted by a serious knee injury after he won a varsity letter as a halfback at the U. S. Military Academy in 1912, he remembered through his darkest hours of World War II and the White House the lessons of football.

President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, who played junior varsity football at Harvard in 1938-39, said at the close of the season last fall that he "hoped the coming generation would continue to have the pleasure of football and learn the hard and very useful lessons which it teaches."

For the first time in history, he appointed a combat football coach director of the national physical fitness program, his name, of course, Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

The nation's capital is also the base of operations for one of college football's all-time greats: Byron (Whizzer) White, the Colorado all-America and Rhodes scholar who today is an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Outstanding educators have come from football. Fred Hovde, for 16 years president of Purdue, was a crack Minnesota back in 1927-28. Wilson H. Elkins, Texas, 1928-31, was a three-letter varsity man, Phi Beta Kappa and Rhodes scholar. He has been president of the University of Maryland for eight years. Another college president who distinguished himself on and off the gridiron is Jerome (Brud) Holland, head of Hampton Institute, who twice achieved all-America fame.

Dr. Barry Wood, Harvard quarterback of 1929-31, is the Professor and Department Head of Microbiology at Johns Hopkins.

Colonel Earl H. Blaik retired as the Army Coach because "I never again expect to have a player like Pete Dawkins". He predicted that Dawkins, a remarkable back, in only a few years after returning as a graduate Rhodes scholar would be Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army.

Jess Hawley, the former Dartmouth coach, more than 20 years ago wrote that one of the finest squads he ever coached, the unbeaten 1924 Green, was practically all Phi Beta Kappa.

"That autumn," he said, "I could put a team on the field, no man playing out of position, no man under second string, and every one a Phi Beta Kappa."

I, as a close observer through the years, heartily agree with President Kennedy, who by the way attends football games, that the top game of them all is America at its very best.

The President's Welcome

Greetings and hearty welcome to all during the 1963 Western Homecoming!

With a student body of almost 4,000 and a faculty of about 250, Western is becoming big, but without any diminution of its traditional spirit of cordial friendliness.

All friends of the college, but especially alumni from afar, are urged to visit the beautiful campus on the hill and to share in our Homecoming festivities.

JAMES L. JARRETT
President

Welcome, Grads!

As you will probably notice, Western has changed quite a bit since you were in attendance here. If your graduation was over three years ago, the physical changes on campus are probably somewhat alarming. However, it should be pointed out that Western's continuation evolution does not end with mere physical changes. If one were to probe into the make-up of Western's entire college community, I'm certain significant differences would be noted in almost every aspect of campus life. For instance, examine the curriculum changes, the enrollment growth, entrance requirements, and perhaps even the change in student spirit and attitude. Western is a new campus in all these ways and many more, yet certain traditions have been retained. These are the things which give the students of Western, both old and new, a sense of pride, nostalgia, and unity. How about the ivy on Old Main? Or the sight of Sehome on a crisp Fall day? These are the things that are shared and cherished by all Western students. On behalf of the students of Western, I would like to invite all alumni to enjoy their Homecoming. Observe the new, and remember the old.

We Greet the Class of '38 . . .

This is my first opportunity to address you as Western's Athletic Director. Of course we are happy to welcome you to Homecoming and we sincerely hope you will enjoy the opportunity to renew old friendships and participate in the special Homecoming events. The honor class this year is the Class of 1938. Athletically, this was a great year and produced one of the all-time great football teams at Western. We take great pleasure in paying tribute to Coach Charles Lappenbusch and his great team of 1938.

It is our hope also that you will have time this weekend to inspect the many improvements in the physical properties of the college and to speak with many of our faculty and students concerning the more important advances in Western's academic and extracurricular programs. We in the department of Men's Physical Education and Athletics are making every effort to keep pace with the advances in other departments of the college. We feel progress is being made and we take pride in being a part of the total educational program at Western.

1938 - The Year of the Unbeatables

The football team of 1938 will always be remembered by the Western fan, for it was this team, coached by Chuck Lappenbusch, that was undefeated and untied in seven games. Through the first six games the Vikings had nosed out many narrow victories. But still they were undefeated going into "Homecoming 1938" against the Eastern Washington State Savages, who had lost but one game and tied one in seven outings.

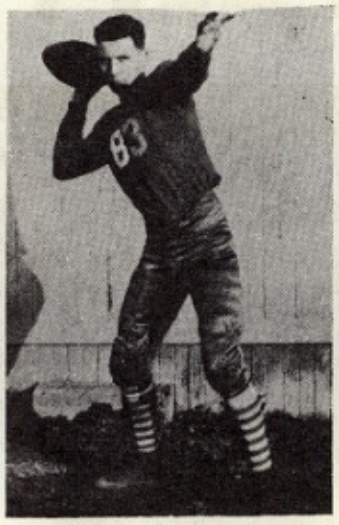

The Savages were coached by the "Cheney Master" W. B. "Red" Reese, who had a knack for turning out champion squads. He had been coaching the Savages since 1930. Eastern had posted wins over formidable foes such as Linfield, P.L.C., Washington State Frosh, Whitworth, and Central. They had allowed only 47 points to their opponents and had posted four shutouts.

The Vikings on the other hand had wins over St. Martins, Oregon Normal, Army, Husky Frosh, Central, P.L.C., but had scored only two shutouts. But the Vikings had a mighty offense led by Captain and Quarterback Fritz Chorvat. So it was to be a battle of the offensive Vikings and the defensive Savages.

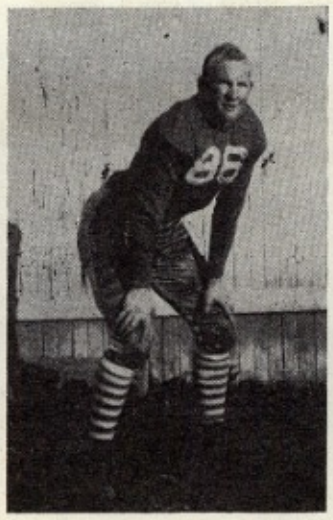

When the final gun fired it was the unbeatable Vikings on top by a score of 7-0. The game had been one of the hardest fought in the history of Viking football. So closed one of the greatest moments in Viking history. Western would win more championships, but there would never be the same feeling that the Viking squad of 1938 instilled in the hearts of the Viking fans.

Ed Reischman . . . "lone ranged" for two years at St. Martins . . . transferred to WWC . . . has been mainstay at tackle since . . . tiger on defense . . . as vicious on offense . . . 194 on the hoof.

Link Sarles . . . Mamaroneck, New York, flash . . . third year on the squad . . . dents the Daytons at 166 pounds plus . . . has that appealing "Yawkish" accent . . . rugged and tough . . . plenty fast.

Al Munkres . . . all the way from Fairhaven . . . daintily known as "Pinky" . . . playing his second year . . . hard fighting fullback . . . gains more ground than a German ultimatum.

Howard Jones . . . local product . . . played swell ball for Washington Huskies . . . transferred to WWC . . . whizz in open field . . . has tricky flipper on pass offense . . . tickles Toledoes at 160.

Glen Smith . . . Canadian gift . . . only foreigner on the squad . . . two yards, seven inches high . . . weighs over a ninth of a ton . . . plays end . . . just a sophomore.

1938 Team . . .

Vaughn Weber . . . heftiest man on the squad . . . weighs 240 pounds . . . plays a crafty role in right tackle . . . especially adept at line blocking . . . second year at WWC

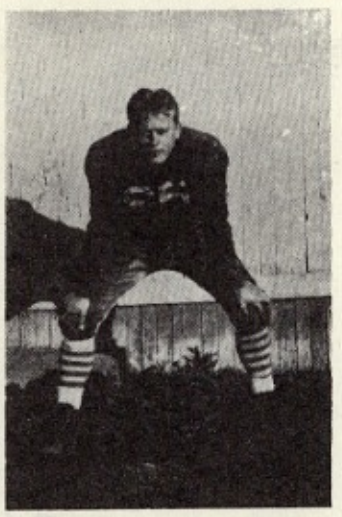

Bob Tisdale . . . from the Casaba village of Menlo, Wash. . . . honey of a passer . . . swell kicker . . . triple-threat ace . . . 160 in the showers . . . second year at half for WWC.

Jim Hollingsworth . . . hard-driving guard from Montesano . . . played center in high school . . . is aggressive and has plenty of speed. . . . should be outstanding this year.

Jim Hall . . . hard fighting end from Sequim high school . . . now replacing Vanderboom at right end . . . improving steadily . . . always aggressive and has plenty of fight on offense and defense . . . has three years ahead of him.

Johnny Fox . . . good egg . . . hatched in Marion, Indiana . . . alternates at guard and full . . . stretches the Fairbanks to 165 . . . third year for WWC . . . one of those little seen watch-charm linesmen.

Russell Davis . . . graduate of Mt. Vernon high . . . 173 pounds . . . outstanding guard . . . two year letter man . . . good line blocker . . . mainstay in Viking line . . . all tri-college guard last year.

Fritz Chorvat . . . hails from Chicago . . . captain for two years . . . 165 pounds . . . three year letter man . . . changed from halfback to quarterback this year . . . exceptional blocker . . . outstanding tackler . . . will be an important man to watch in homecoming game.

Henry White . . . son of Bellingham . . . graduate of Fairhaven high . . . tackle . . . varsity reserve last year . . . an improved line man this year . . . Hank plays a bruising game up front.

Jack Janikula . . . pronounced John-i-koola . . . booms his punts at sixty yards . . . crafty leader . . . originated in Enumclaw, Wash. . . . fast on the sprint . . . Chorvat's ablest understudy.

Kenny Hill . . . from the hills of Camas, Wash. . . . initial year on the gridiron for the Viks . . . converted to guard from halfback . . . poundage of 175 . . . tough as spikes . . . kills more plays than sore drama critic.

Chuck Lappenbusch - Head Coach, 1938

At the helm of the unbeatable 1938 squad was Charles F. Lappenbusch the founder of the "Straight Line Philosophy." Coach since 1933 "Lap" used his system to advantage as the Vikings stormed through their season undefeated. Mr. Lappenbusch says of the 1938 team:

> "This team is unique in that it is the first team to utilize a philosophy to govern its operations rather than a system. The basic foundations of the Straight Line Philosophy were time, area, and enclosure as in contrast with the systemitised defenses which are usually on man-for-man, zone, or ball. This is not what made the players great, but allowed them to be great as a unit. Free of natural and deliberate confusion."

Their Last Year for The Vikings

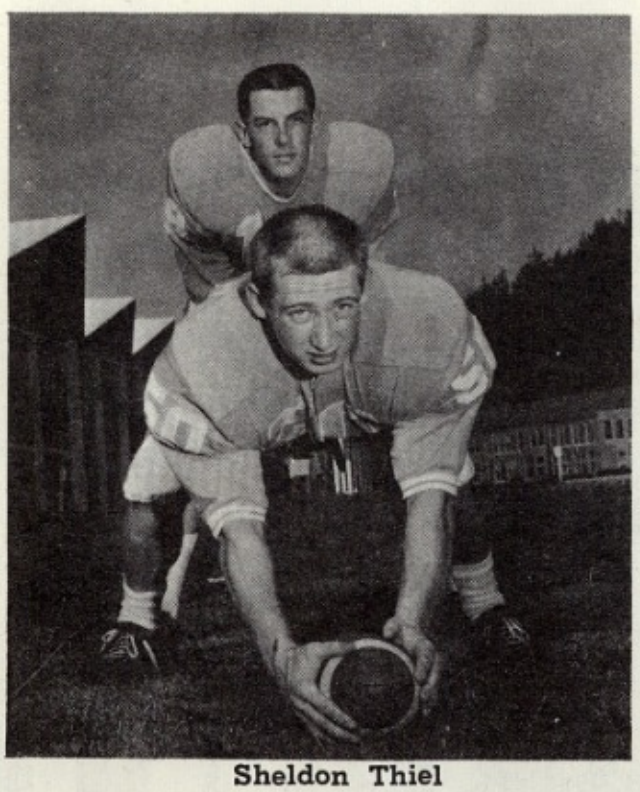

Dick Nicholl

Dave Alfred

Jim Jean

Sheldon Thiel

This year the Vikings will lose only four seniors due to eligibility. They are Dick Nicholl, Shelly Thiel, Jim Jean, and captain Dave Alfred. They have played great ball for the Vikings in their careers at Western and they will be remembered for many years by those of us who had the honor of associating with them in athletics and as friends. We sincerely wish them the best of luck in the future and hope they will return some day to visit friends and memories of Western.

The Western Story

This is the second meeting of the season for the Lutes and Vikings. In the previous game the Vikings were victorious 34-7 in a game played at the Lincoln Bowl in Tacoma. The Vikings had struck early against the Lutes and by the half it was Western 20, P.L.U. 0. The Vikings were led by quarterback Terry Parker who passed for two touchdowns and scored two himself.

Statistically the Vikings outgained the Lutes 258 to 83 and outpassed them 98 to 38. The Vikings had 16 first downs to the Knights 6 and throughout the game they were the dominant team as P.L.U. was never able to start rolling.

A victory in today's Homecoming game would give the Vikings third place in the conference with a 4-3 record. The season record would be 5-4. Should the Vikings lose however they would end up in a tie for third with U.P.S. if the Loggers down the surging Eastern Savages in Cheney.

The Vikings will be at full strength for the Homecoming game as Halfback Ron Roe returned to the lineup last week against Whitworth. Tackle John Slostad also returned to the lineup. Both had been out due to ankle injuries.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jean who became the parents of a baby girl the morning of the Whitworth game last weekend. It is number two for them, both girls. By the way, Jim played one of his best games against the Pirates picking up seven unassisted tackles and helping on numerous others. Jim also recovered a Pirate fumble.

Many, many thanks to the tremendous coverage of the Western games, both away and at home, by Dick Stark of KPUG and Haines Faye of KGMI. The Viking fans sincerely appreciate their work. Also thanks to Wallie Lindsley the sports editor of the Bellingham Herald for his fine writeups on the Western Games.

A special thanks from me to Jack Carver, photographer of the Bellingham Herald. All the pictures of the 1963 Vikings and the Homecoming court are the work of Jack.
