JIM HEARD, Fullback

6-0, 200, senior from Roseburg (Douglas high). Third year as starting fullback. Shoulder injury kept Jim out until fourth game. Value to team not statistically measurable, has twice won team's outstanding blocker award.

Athletic Director . . .

"Skip" Stahley

Skip is well known to most football fans. He has coached at such universities as Harvard and Brown in the Ivy League, at the University of Washington, and was head coach and athletic director at the University of Idaho before coming to Portland State. He also served as backfield coach of the professional football Chicago Cardinals.

Skip has coached many great athletes. Two of the most notable are Jerry Kramer, all-pro offensive guard with the Green Bay Packers, and Wayne Walker, all-pro defensive linebacker with the Detroit Lions.

In his fifth year as athletic Director at Portland State he is working to build a well-rounded athletic program commensurate with the school's academic growth, and one that Portlander's will wholeheartedly support and take pride in.

Vikings' New Head Coach . . .

Don Read

The Don Read era began this fall at Portland State. The new head football coach, seventh in 22 years of the grid sport, has definite ideas on the way a major college program must be run to make it competitive with schools such as Montana State, Montana, Weber State, Fresno State and the other tough opponents on the Viking schedule. At least a dozen varsity performers returning from last year found the going too rough, not to-their-liking, and decided to call it a career. Those that remained, whom you will see representing Portland State this evening, went through two weeks of 15 hour football days which were, without doubt, the toughest conditioning drills ever encountered by football athletes on the local campus. Hence, the nickname "Survivors," the label worn proudly by the '68 Vikings. Also for the first time, all players and coaches, single and married alike, lived, ate, and practiced together, as a team, for the entire three weeks prior to the opening game against Idaho State.

Coach Read is a native Californian, attended the University of Oregon for one year, then gained his bachelor's and master's degrees from Sacramento State where he played center in football in 1959-60.

Read comes to Portland from Humboldt State where he was backfield coach serving under Bud Van Deren for two years. Prior to that, he was three years head coach and two years assistant at Petaluma, Calif., high school. During that five year period, Petaluma had an impressive 35-9-4 record.

An exponent of wide open football, Read has written many articles which have been published in coaching journals during the past seven years and has a book coming out shortly called, "The Complete Passing Game," which will be published by Parker Publishing Co.

Coach Read and his wife, Lois, have two children and live in Cedar Hills.

DEFENSIVE COACH

Ebullient George Dyer, defensive coach, provides much of the fire and spirit which the Vikings show this year. Dyer served with head coach Read on the Humboldt State staff during the 1966-67 seasons and last year was head mentor at Coalinga, Calif. JC, winning the conference championship.

Dyer was an outstanding center also in his collegiate days playing for Cactus Jack Curtice at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

DEFENSIVE BACKFIELD COACH

Roy Love, known as a great competitor and outstanding baseball coach at PSC, is the dean of the staff starting his seventh year. Love has handled the frosh in preceding years, but Read wanted him full-time with the varsity this season.

OFFENSIVE LINE COACH

Mickey Gray works with the interior of the offensive line. Another former star center, Gray is a Portland State grad who was associated with the successful Lincoln high school teams of the early 1960's.

OFFENSIVE BACKS AND ENDS COACH

Gary Hamblet, another Portland State alum, helps Read with the offensive backfield and has charge of the receivers. Graduate assistant from Lake Oswego.

FROSH COACH

Don Deisch, helped out with the varsity during the two week period of intensive daily doubles. Also handles most scouting assignments. Attended Mt. Shasta junior college and Southern Oregon, now a graduate student at Portland State.

Today's Game

This has been a great week for the Portland State—coached Vikings of Don Read. That first win of the season last weekend at Eastern Washington gave the Viks a chance to rebound to a 5-5 season, the goal now uppermost in everyone in the grid picture at PSC.

Western Washington has played one game fewer than Portland State; both have one win against tough competition.

Western (also nicknamed the Vikings) lost a surprisingly close 7-3 decision to Central Washington in their last outing, so tonight's game should be another battle. Central, earlier in the year, defeated Eastern Washington 14-12 so all three of the Evergreen conference teams seem well-balanced.

Previously, Western Washington lost to Central Washington (again) 14-7, Eastern Washington 30-13, and Whitworth 19-0, picking up their only win 7-6 over Simon Fraser, PSC's only remaining home opponent two weeks from now.

The (PSC) Vikings have dropped four to Big Sky conference opponents: Idaho State 52-30, Montana State 17-6, Montana 58-0, and Weber State 28-13; and lost to Fresno State 30-14.

* * *

Quarterback Don Suloff was touched for four interceptions on the cold afternoon at Cheney, three in the first half and one on his first pass of the second half. Suloff, however, came up with the big scoring play, hitting Lorny Andersen for 64 yards and Dave Bailey for 80 yards and the game winner in the third period. Bailey's was a beautiful over-the-shoulder catch which he took on the 50 in full-stride with two defenders also going for the ball. While they recovered their directions, Bailey was heading for pay-dirt and won the foot-race going away.

Thanks to stubborn defensive play by down-linemen Doug Frisbie, Darrell Bowen, Hank Barton, Brett Crouser, Mike Churchill and Joe Yraguen; linebackers Dale Pfleiger and Tom Dearborn, and ends Duncan Vuksich and Billie Frazier, PSC held Eastern Washington to 164 yards rushing and more than half of that came on two plays.

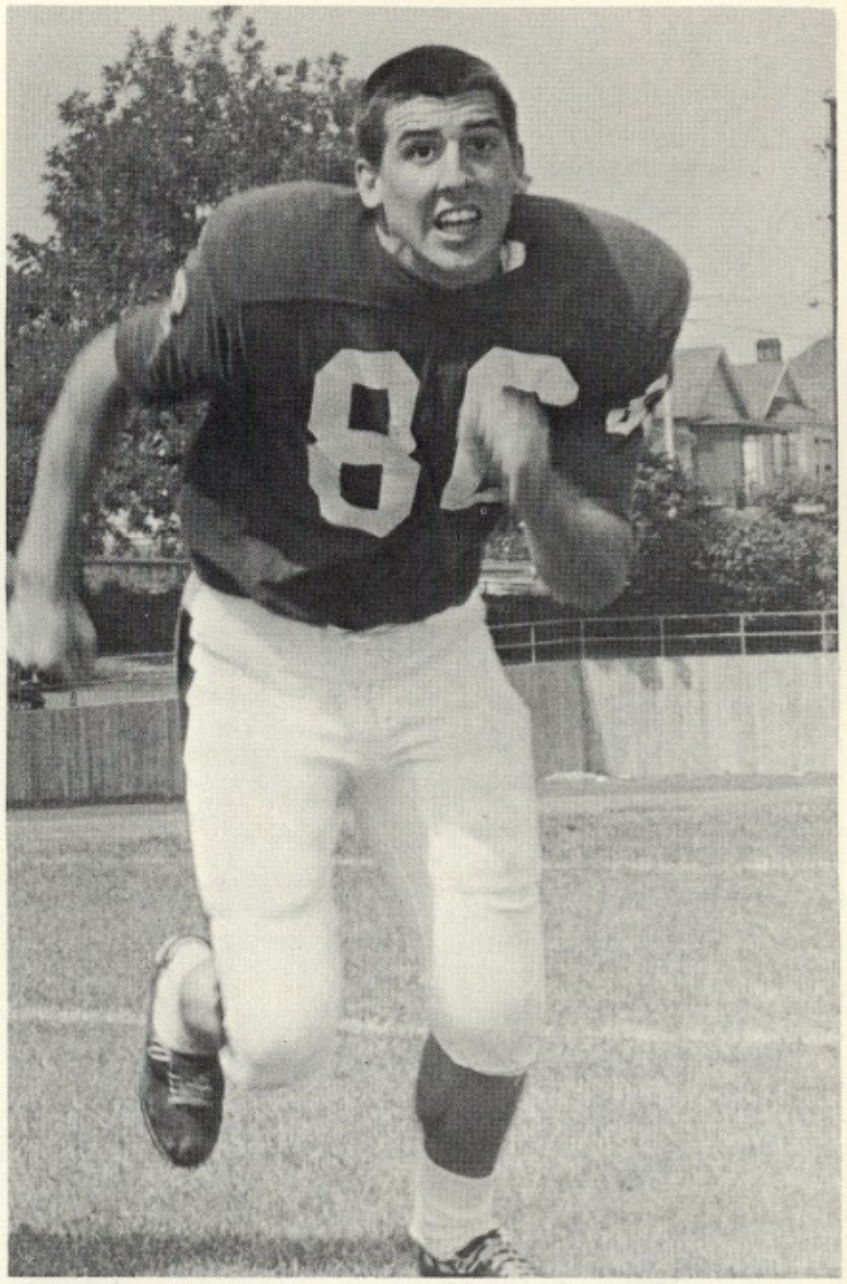

John Jahns was the defensive secondary standout intercepting three passes, one in the end zone, and making some fine tackles. Henry Rhone and Dennis Birenbaum also were credited with saves.

Portland State came through their fourth game in a row without a major injury. Center Tom Calkins and offensive guard Dave Conceicao had a bruised shoulder and strained knee, respectively, but both were expected to be ready for action tonight.

Randy Nelson, split receiver, will again be a marked man as Western tries to defend against the pass. Nelson added four catches last Saturday to boost his season total to 36 receptions good for 455 yards. Tom Perrin has caught 19, Lorny Andersen 14.

Supplying the vital offensive blocking for PSC tonight will be Tom Calkins at center, Dave Conceicao and Brent Somner or John Davis at guards, Tom Fee and Rick Young at tackles, and Tom Perrin at tight end.

Western Washington is led in the line by 240 pound tackle Butts Giraud, who has won Evergreen Conference lineman of the week honors on more than one occasion. He has won nomination for small college All-American recognition.

DUNCAN VUKSICH, Defensive End

6-2, 180, junior from Centennial of Gresham. Great competitor who seldom makes a mistake. One of true leaders of improving Vik defense, had another top game in 19-13 win over Eastern Washington.

Last year, PSC edged Western 21-16 after trailing 16-7 at half time. Ed Gorman set records that day completing 24 out of 38 passes for 257 yards. The series stands at three wins for Portland State and one for Western Washington.

HALFTIME . . .

During intermission tonight, we are sure you will enjoy the Milwaukie high school band and Mustang Marchers. Last year this 94-member group performed at football halftimes for the San Francisco 49ers, Baltimore Colts, as well as Portland State College.

Mary Linda Hatfield directs the Mustang Marchers; Chuck Swan is Milwaukie band director.

Drum major is Mark Hoyt; drum captain, Monty Havlicek; color guard commander, Janet Casler; majorette, Barbara Hill; rifle twirlers, Patty Willers and Laura Barney.

TOM PERRIN, Tight End

6-1, 200, junior from Franklin of Portland. Second leading pass receiver on squad at mid-season. Red shirt last year. Fine hands, good desire.

RICK SANDERS

Sanders, thereby, placed second in the world in the 114.5 pound division, behind only Shigeo Nakata of Japan.

Sanders' four year record at PSC, concluded last spring, was 103 wins and only two losses. In addition to his five national crowns, he also had a second and a third and was picked outstanding wrestler at four different national tournaments.

At night, it's a moonroof.

The VW sunroof, or moonroof, gives you enough space to get a full view of the Milky Way or the moon. (It's also perfect for satellite searching or counting stars.)

If you only want a three-quarter view of what's above, all you have to do is crank the crank a few turns to the left, and you have three-quarters of a hole in the roof.

A few more turns to the left and you've got an airtight, all steel roof overhead. (It's padded and lined like the rest of the car so you can hardly tell it's there.)

A Volkswagen with a hole in its top is just as cheap to run as any other Volkswagen. (You won't have to moonlight at a second job to afford to run one.)

It'll go about 27 miles on a gallon of gas, and about 40,000 miles on a set of tires.

And you don't have to spend a tidy sum getting your car ready for winter. (It won't need antifreeze, and chances are it won't need snow tires or chains either.)

In short, this Volkswagen does just about everything any other Volkswagen does, plus a little more.

So you see, you don't have to have a hole in your head to buy a VW with a hole in its head.
