VIKING FOOTBALL HISTORY

Football at Western Washington State College is in its 61st year of competition this fall. Actually the sport began 72 years ago on the then Bellingham State Normal School (BSNS) campus in 1903, but interruptions accounted for ten seasons being missed. No teams were fielded in 1905-06 and 1910-11, while the two World Wars terminated the activity from 1918-20 and 1943-45.

The early football teams on the hill were usually loosely organized. They were responsible for their own financing, while most of the coaching was done by team captains, although a faculty advisor was appointed to see that all was done properly.

This was the arrangement made in 1903 by L. A. Kibbe, with Principal (the title of President was not adopted until 1915) Edward T. Mathes. R. W. Greene was named the advisor and Kibbe the general manager.

Despite the fact that there were only 37 men enrolled in school as compared to 370 women, a team was organized that played two games, losing 6-5 (a touchdown only counted five points) to Anacortes High School and defeating Everett High School 12-0.

The next season three games were played with Mount Vernon, Whatcom and Anacortes High Schools, all of which ended in victories for BSNS.

An interval of two years elapsed before another Normal School gridiron squad was formed in 1907 with James O'Sullivan the advisor. He was in charge for three years before another two-year gap came.

In 1912 the sport was revived again under advisor Dr. Turner. That season the team, whose nickname was either Hilltoppers or Huskies during that period, finished with a 4-2 record.

Thas was followed by a 2-2-1 ledger in 1913. On that team the ends were Dick Hanley and Sam Carver. Hanley went on to become the head football coach at Northwestern University in 1927, while Carver became the first actual coach at the Normal School in 1914.

Normal School teams were beset with numerous problems during these early years, the main one being scheduling. High schools, which at that time were often more than a match for the small college, were reluctant to play because they had much to lose if one of their players got hurt and very little to gain if they won. Also the closest peer institution with a team was the College of Puget Sound (now the University of Puget Sound) at Tacoma, which was no easy trip in the early 1900's.

Most away games were traveled to by boat as many of the early opponents were located near the water. The team, most of the faculty and a good number of students would get up early the morning of game day, board a ship at around 6:30 a.m. and arrive just in time for the game. Afterwards it was back to the ship for basket lunches and a cruise back to Bellingham Bay.

Another problem was personnel. At this time the State of Washington was composed of small towns, where it was rare for a young man to receive formal football training. This led to situations such as that experienced by the Normal School in 1912 when nine of the 14 team members had never played the game before. Also with this small a number of boys on the team, if an injury occurred, more than likely there was no substitute.

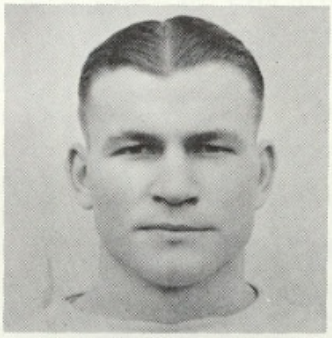

Carver coached the Normal School football team for 14 years, stepping aside after the 1932 season. His gridiron tenure was interrupted by World War I and by a year's leave of absence in 1924, which he took to complete his Bachelor's degree at Stanford University. In all, he spent 42 years as a member of the Physical Education department, retiring in 1955.

The 1916 team won six of seven games, outscoring its opponents 348 to 42. Included were lopsided victories over Ferndale High School 80-0, Anacortes High School 50-0 and the College of Puget Sound, 46-0 and 78-14.

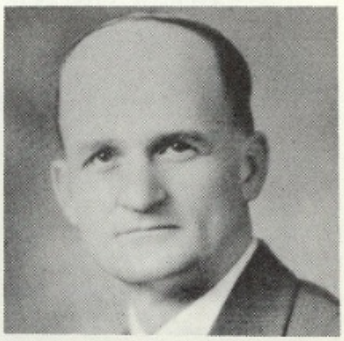

The official school colors of blue and white were adopted in 1921. This was also the first year that letter awards were presented to football players.

In 1922 the Tri-Normal League was formed, consisting of Bellingham, Cheney and Ellensburg State Normal Schools.

Two changes came to BSNS in 1923 as Waldo Field (named after former President Dwight B. Waldo) was completed and dedicated. It was located on campus approximately where "Red Square" is today. Also the nickname of Vikings was officially adopted by the Board of Control from the 65 names submitted.

Charles Lappenbusch

Sam Carver

The 1923 Vikings won the Tri-Normal League championship. In 1924, under interim coach Elwood Davis, BSNS repeated as league titlists. That season the first Homecoming game was held on the Bellingham campus in which the Vikings defeated Cheney.

Carver, who posted an overall record of 46-47-7, had a number of outstanding players on his teams. He picked halfback Dick Bruland as the best. Others were ends Roy Abbott, Swede Anderson, Iver Moe and Oscar Thorsen, guards Pop Gunn and Ray Sulkosky, quarterback Ray Odell, fullback Russ Seymour and halfbacks Chuck Erickson and Walt Sinko.

In 1933 BSNS became Western Washington College of Education (WWCE) and Charles Lappenbusch came from Albany College (now Lewis and Clark College) in Oregon to become head football coach. His teams were the first to play their home games at Bellingham's Battersby Field in 1935.

Steve Richardson

Dave Weedman

Lappenbusch instituted his "Straight-Line Philosophy" in 1938 and his Vikings responded by having the greatest season in Western gridiron history, finishing 7-0 and capturing the first championship of the newly formed Washington Intercollegiate Conference (Winco). Western defeated St. Martin's 6-3, Monmouth 13-0, Washington Frosh 6-0, Fort Lewis 20-7, Ellensburg 13-6, Pacific Lutheran 33-14 and Cheney 7-0.

On that team were such standouts as quarterback Frank Chorvat, halfbacks Howard Jones and Bob Tisdale, fullback Al Munkres, center Fred Baldwin, guard Russell Davis and tackles Vaughn Weber and Ed Reischman.

Of the team Lappenbusch said, "It is unique in that it was the first team to utilize a philosophy to govern its operation rather than a system. The basic foundations of the Straight-Line Philosophy are time, area and enclosure. This is not what made the players great, but allowed them to be great as a unit, free of natural and deliberate confusion."

Football at Western was interrupted for the fourth time by World War II. The 1947 team made history by becoming the first Viking squad to travel by air.

It was another long wait between championships for Western as the Vikings did not take another title until 1951 when they tied for the Evergreen Conference (Evco—formed in 1948) crown.

That year the Big Blue rolled to an 8-1 record, outscoring its opponents 282 to 57. Included were victories over Pacific 8-0, British Columbia 40-6 and 52-6, Eastern Washington 59-0 and 20-12, Puget Sound 19-0, Whitworth 51-12 and Central 33-7. The only loss was to Pacific Lutheran 14-0.

The 1951 team ranked ninth nationally (NAIA) in defense (165.0 avg.), intercepting 17 passes, recovering a like number of fumbles and blocking six punts.

Fullback Norm Hash, who rushed for 590 yards and scored 86 points, was named to the Associated Press Little All-America team. He had been an honorable mention selection in 1949. Linebacker Everett Tiland was a second-team Little All-America choice in 1950.

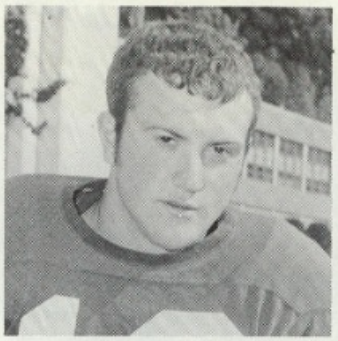

Quarterback Don Walley passed for 899 yards, while halfback Roy Richardson caught passes for 440 yards. Other standouts were defensive end Pete Muir and guards Art Larsson and Dick Pangallo.

In 1955 defensive end Willie Ball was an honorable mention Little All-America pick for Western. That was Lappenbusch's final year at the helm. He continued as Director of Athletics until 1963 and as a member of the Physical Education department until 1975. His overall record of 81-62-15 (20 years) is the best mark of any Viking mentor.

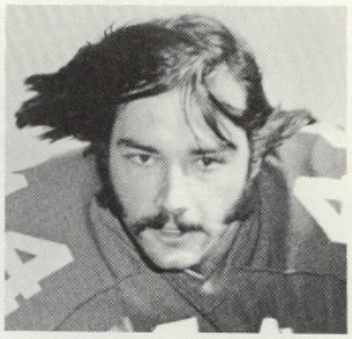

John Kulbitski, who had assisted Lappenbusch, took over as head coach in 1956, directing Western to a tie for the Evco title in 1958. Two Vikings were Little All-America honorable mention selections during his tenure, halfback Fred Emerson, who led the league in total offense (1172 yards) and scoring (71 points) in 1957, and guard Ed Melbourne in 1958.

When Kulbitski resigned after the 1959 campaign, Jim Lounsberry came over to coach the Vikings from Whitworth College where he had directed the Pirates to three Evco championships.

While Lounsberry was head coach WWCE became Western Washington State College in 1961 and the Vikings moved to Bellingham Civic Stadium to play their home games in 1962. In Lounsberry's last season (1965), defensive end Gary Axtell was an honorable menton NAIA All-America pick.

Glenn Hadland

Tom Wigg

Fred Emerson became head coach in 1966. That season halfback Steve Richardson made the first-team NAIA All-America squad. He was also selected to the All-Evco team on both offense and defense for the third straight season.

TONIGHT'S GAME:

WESTERN WASHINGTON STATE vs. EASTERN WASHINGTON STATE

The Western Washington State College football team has a score to settle this evening as it hosts Eastern Washington State College in an Evergreen Conference (Evco) game.

Last year, the Eagles administered a 64-0 shellacking to the Vikings. It was the worst defeat in Big Blue gridiron history.

Another incentive for Western is in recapturing the axe trophy, which goes to the winner of the contest between the two longtime rivals. The tradition of the axe was begun in 1970 by then WWSC president Dr. Charles Flora and his EWSC counterpart Dr. Emerson Shuck.

The axe occupied the Viking trophy case for the first two years of its exitence, but has been in the Eagle hardware collection the past three seasons. In each case, the games have been lopsided affairs, Western winning by 28-6 and 51-0 scores and Eastern taking 28-13 and 34-6 victories as well as last fall's triumph.

Coach Boyde Long's squad (0-4) is still seeking that elusive first victory. Win number one slipped away after being within grasp for the third straight week last Saturday as the Vikings lost 20-14 to Central Washington.

Western has dropped its last three encounters by a total deficit of only nine points. That includes 21-20 and 14-12 losses to Lewis and Clark (L-C) College and Eastern Oregon State College (EOSC).

Quarterback Bill Mendelson threw for 215 yards against the Wildcats and ranks second among Evco passers. He has completed 38 of 77 attempts for 575 yards.

Backing him up is transfer Terrill Morgan, who threw for 1680 yards at Los Angeles City College a year ago. In limited action this season he has thrown for 243 yards.

The combined passing of Mendelson and Morgan has ranked the Vikings among the top ten nationally (NAIA) in total offense.

Western's receiving corps, which Long rates "the best in the northwest," is composed of split end Hoyt Gier, tight end Mike Haerling and flankerback Jeff Potter.

Potter has made ten receptions for 265 yards thus far, including two touchdown grabs of 47 and 38 yards. Gier has 15 catches for 207 yards and Haerling 12 grabs for 148 yards.

The Viking running game has been hampered by injuries. Halfback Rick Vanderyacht missed three games with various leg injuries. In his only complete game he scored twice against L-C. Another casualty was fullback Rick Jones, who suffered a dislocated elbow in the EOSC contest and will be out of action another two weeks.

Halfback Bob Fenton has run for 153 yards to lead the Big Blue in that category. Mendelson is next with 125 and freshman fullback Dave Browne has picked up 122.

Browne also handles kickoff and punting (36.4) duties. He is the best Western has had in these two areas in the last few seasons.

Opening the holes and providing pass blocking is the offensive line, which consists of center Andy Harlin, guards Rick Brudwick and Scott Stokes and tackles Jeff Herbster and Glenn Martin.

The defense has veterans Chuck Houser and Emil Whitman at ends. Whitman has recovered three fumbles this year and Houser one.

The tackles are Dann DeBellis and Kirby Taylor, who is the biggest man on the Viking roster at 280 pounds.

Bob Taylor, the team's tackle leader with 53, heads the linebacking corps. He is flanked by Haerling, Mike Locker and Terry Veltkamp.

The secondary includes Kevin Kelly and Jim Sterk at halfbacks, with Gier the safety. Gier had a 49-yard interception return against EOSC as well as a fumble recovery.

John Huntley, who also saw action in the defensive backfield, will undergo knee surgery and miss the remainder of the Viking schedule. He had a 90-yard punt return for a TD in the EOSC encounter to establish a new school record.

Making punt and kickoff returns for Western are Greg Gamby, who has run six kickoffs back 132 yards, and Darrell Stieber.

Eastern Washington has a 1-3 ledger, coming off a 22-12 triumph over Oregon Tech last week.

At quarterback for Coach John Massengale's Eagles is Marco Begovich, a transfer from Spokane Falls CC. He has thrown for 437 yards, completing 40 of 81 tosses.

Karst Brandsma, who earned all-league honors at the signal-calling position last year, is a halfback this fall. He scored a touchdown and threw for another against the Owls.

Halfback Mike Richter, a two-time, All-Evco selection, leads the defense. He had nine interceptions to pace the league a year ago and has three thefts this season.

Eagle kicker Barry Sartz had a big day against Oregon Tech, booting three field goals, one a 43-yarder.

(NEXT HOME GAME: NOV. 15—SOUTHERN OREGON STATE COLLEGE —1:30 P.M.)

Defensive end Dave Weedman was a second-team NAIA All-America the next year and he became the first Viking to be picked in the National Football league draft (12th round-Washington Redskins). That season Western nearly upset Eastern Washington 26-21, a team that went on to the NAIA championship game before suffering defeat.

Steve Jasmer

Vic Randall

Butts Giraud, a defensive tackle, was an honorable mention NAIA All-America in 1968 and 1969. In that latter year the Vikings tied for the Evco title, defeating Eastern Washington for its championship share 19-16 in the famous "fog bowl" at Civic Stadium.

In 1970 Boyde Long, who had been assistant coach since 1966, became head mentor. Western placed second in the Evco that season as safety Vic Randall set records for interceptions in a season (9) and career (26) and was an honorable mention NAIA All-America choice.

The 1971 Vikings took the school's frst outright Evco title, being led by linebacker Dan Grimshaw, defensive halfback Kevin Halliburton, split end Steve Jasmer, tackle Ken Knuckey, guards Jeff Michaelson and Marv Nelson, placekicker Lance Wilson and fullback Tom Wigg, all of whom were honorable mention NAIA All-America picks.

That season quarterback Glenn Hadland passed for 1475 yards, while Wigg rushed for 1176 yards and Jasmer caught passes for 609 yards, all of which are Western season records.

Wigg was named All-Evco for the fourth time in 1973, the only player to be so honored in the history of the league.

Thus football at Western has had many exciting moments, standout players and top coaches in carving an overall record of 210-195-25. This while remainng within the philosophy of the institution, which maintains that athletics is a part of the educational program, being justified by the value derived by participants and in preparing better future teachers and coaches. Also, that emphasis will be put upon developing an overall varsity sports program rather than concentrating on one or two sports.
