ABOUT WESTERN

Western Washington University emphasizes excellence in undergraduate education and in selected graduate programs. The University is large enough to offer a wide range of high quality programs and small enough to focus its resources on individual students. Faculty, students, and staff work closely together in a superb setting to pursue a university education and build career skills on a sound foundation of the arts, humanities, sciences and professional studies.

There are extraordinary opportunities available to a Western student: facilities such as the Wilson Library, the marine laboratory, the computer center, and the Performing Arts Center; distinguished programs as wide ranging as vehicle technology, music, environmental studies, journalism, business and education; art and architecture created by such as Noguchi, Caro, Bassetti and Ibsen Nelson. The University occupies a forested hill above Bellingham Bay and the city with views of the San Juan Islands, Mount Baker, and the Canadian and Cascade mountain ranges.

The campus is a stunning blend of art and nature. It has been called "magic." Its visual power signals the power of the educational opportunity offered to Western students. An accomplished faculty makes undergraduate education its primary mission. Western students engage in the great tradition of the arts and sciences, fostering values such as clarity of thought and expression, informed judgment, aesthetic sensibility, tolerance for ambiguity, a sensitivity to cultural differences, and a sense of historical continuity. Upon these values Western students build for the future, choosing from a wide range of professional programs which foster the knowledge and skills demanded by today's careers.

Western reflects the high aspirations of Washington citizens for educational excellence. For students, faculty and staff Western thus embodies an opportunity and a challenge.

WWU President Kenneth P. Mortimer

Old Main

Western was founded in 1893 and has grown from a small teacher's college into a multipurpose institution of 9,000 students, offering a wide range of educational opportunities, from studies in the liberal arts and sciences to pre-professional and professional training.

Western offers degree programs through five colleges and two schools. The College of Arts and Sciences, the largest division of the University, offers over 60 major programs in 22 departments. Programs in accounting, business administration, economics, business education and office administration are available through the College of Business and Economics. The School of Education trains teachers at all levels, from preschool through college. The talents and facilities of the department of art, music and theatre/dance are offered through the College of Fine and Performing Arts. Huxley College of Environmental Studies addresses the biological, social and cultural dimensions of environmental problems on a scale ranging from local to global. Students who wish to take maximum responsibility for the direction and content of their degree programs, share in curriculum planning and engage in a variety of independent studies may be interested in Fairhaven College. Fairhaven students may select a major from another division of Western or design their own Fairhaven concentration. Western's Graduate School offers the Master of Arts, Master of Business Administration, Master of Education, Master of Music and Master of Science degrees in nearly 30 different areas of concentration.

Western is located in Bellingham, a city of 48,000 in the northwest corner of the state near the Canadian border. The 224-acre campus, on the west slope of Sehome Hill, overlooks the downtown area, Bellingham Bay, and the beautiful San Juan Islands. Less than an hour's drive away are the ski slopes of 10,778-foot Mount Baker, numerous lakes, two major rivers, and the alpine country of the North Cascades. Seattle is 90 miles to the south, and Vancouver, British Columbia, is 55 miles to the north.

We have the muscle to keep Washington in the game.

No one supports Washington's affair with sports like U.S. Bank.

We know that for thousands of men and women all over the state, athletic competition is more than part of their weekend TV schedule. It's a big part of their life.

A part that's important enough to keep them coming back, year after year, to dozens of sports events through the state.

That's why we keep coming back too, every year, to lend our backing to these popular events.

To us, they're more than just another community service. They're vital to the active involved way of life that helps Washington keep its best foot forward.

VIKING FEATURE:
SCOTT LOHR: RUNNING FOR DAYLIGHT

By Butch Kamena

For the past three years, Scott Lohr has been a starting running back for Western Washington University. This year, he's the only starting running back, and it's a situation he enjoys.

"People are going to see me do things I haven't done for quite a while," the senior from Olympia said prior to the season.

Lohr spent his first three seasons as a tailback in the "I" formation, but this year is the lone back in Western's new spread offense.

"I'm excited about it," said Lohr. "There's designed plays, but instead of hitting a specific hole, I get the ball and go for daylight. In high school, that was my style."

Not that Lohr had floundered in the "I". He's third on Western's career rushing list with 2,192 yards. Last season, he scored a school-record 13 touchdowns, 12 of them on the ground.

"One thing about the "I"; the tailback is the main ball carrier," Lohr said. "If we were inside the five or 10-yard line, I got the ball. I ended up scoring a lot of touchdowns. That's any running back's dream, and I hope it continues, but it's not a major theme. I want to win, it doesn't matter who's scoring."

That kind of attitude is something praised by Western's coaching staff.

"I have a lot of respect for Scott," said offensive coordinator Phil Earley. "He has talent, but he's also worked his butt off. As an offensive coordinator, I'd like to surround myself with people like Scott Lohr."

"Scott is the epitome of a team player," said Western head coach Rob Smith. "He was excited about our new offense because he felt it would be good for us as a team, not just good for Scott Lohr."

Lohr came to Western in 1986. Initially, he shared time with John Dickinson, then earned the starting spot in the sixth game.

He's started every game since, steadily getting better and better.

"It's easy to see the changes," said Earley. "He's worked hard in the off-season. He's one of our best people in the weight room. In the spring, he showed moves I've never seen from him before. His hands, which were only average as a freshman, have become excellent."

Lohr credits much of his success to the offensive linemen in front of him clearing holes.

"My philosophy is that without them, I'm just another guy off the street," Lohr said. "As a running back, you depend on the line to make holes. I try to let them know how I feel, how important they are to my success."

Lohr is enthusiastic and confident about this season, but not cocky.

"Six months from now, if you asked me what my best memories of football at Western were, I might say my senior year. I see us accomplishing great things. "Still, you have to be careful not to say too much before you've proven yourself."

Scott Lohr has proven himself. He'll go down as one of the best backs Western has ever had, both on and off the field.

WESTERN HOSTS CENTRAL WASHINGTON IN MOUNT RAINIER LEAGUE SHOWDOWN

A battle of unbeatens takes place tonight as the Western Vikings play host to the Central Washington University Wildcats.

Both teams have used the strength of their defenses to earn 2-0-0 overall records and 1-0-0 Mount Rainier League marks.

The Vikings, who narrowly missed being ranked in this week's NAIA Division II National poll, crushed Western Oregon, 41-6, last week after opening the season with a 24-9 triumph over Whitworth. The Vikings are ranked fifth nationally in total defense, fifth in passing defense, sixth in rushing defense and seventh in scoring defense.

The Wildcats, rated third in the most recent poll, defeated Linfield, 24-6, last week, after shutting out Southern Oregon, 26-0, in their opener. Central is ranked third in scoring defense, ninth in total defense and ninth in passing defense.

HISTORY - VIKINGS VS. WILDCATS

Central leads the series, which dates back to 1923, 46-25, with four ties. The Wildcats have won the last 10 games, including a 37-20 triumph last year. Western's last victory over Central was 23-7 in 1978.

1988 RECORDS

Western was 5-4, 3-3 in the Mount Rainier League of the Columbia Football Association. Central was 9-1, winning the MRL with a 6-0 mark and reaching the opening round of the national playoffs, where it lost to Carroll (Mont.), 28-7.

CENTRAL WASHINGTON UPDATE

Central has won 14 straight regular season games and return seven starters on both offense and defense.

Heading the returnees is senior defensive tackle Mike Estes, a first-team NAIA All-American. Estes anchors a defensive unit that has 21 sacks and six other tackles for losses in the first two games. The other tackle, Matt Fenger, leads the CFA in sacks with four.

The Wildcat defense is allowing just 3.0 points a game and 192.5 yards a game.

The offense is led by honorable mention NAIA All-America running back Pat Patterson. Patterson rushed for a school record 1,146 yards and 12 touchdowns in 1988 and has 171 yards so far this season.

Quarterbacking Central is Ken Stradley, a transfer from Eastern Washington.

The coach of the Wildcats, Mike Dunbar, is in his fourth year and has a career record of 26-6.

WESTERN UPDATE

The Viking defense has been brilliant in the first two games, allowing a mere 148.0 yards and 7.5 points a contest.

Cornerback Steve Glover is tied for second nationally with three interceptions. The Vikings lead the CFA in takeaways with 12, seven by interception, five by fumble.

Against Western Oregon, Western allowed 104 yards of offense, its lowest total since 1971, and only six first downs as free safety Kelly Susee was named MRL Defensive Player of the Week.

On offense, the Vikings have relied on the passing of quarterback Kirk Kriskovich, who is averaging 258.0 yards a game and has thrown for five touchdowns. Against Western Oregon, Kriskovich tied a school record by throwing for three TDs.

Nine different receivers have caught passes in the first two games, led by wide receiver Jake Bell (8 catches for 166 yards).

Tailback Scott Lohr has rushed for 194 yards and three touchdowns. Lohr has 27 career TDs, tying the school record set by Pat Locker (1976-79).

Western head coach Rob Smith, a 1981 University of Washington graduate, will be the subject of a feature for the Husky Highlight Show which airs tomorrow (11 a.m.) on KCPQ-TV (Channel 13).

WESTERN FEATURE:
WESTERN'S CAMPUS: AN OUTDOOR ART MUSEUM

by Rob Martin

Take a walk through Western's campus and you're liable to pass by art work that has helped to establish its Outdoor Sculpture Collection as one of the best in the nation.

Since 1957, Western has acquired a total of 20 works by international, national and regional artists and has become known across the nation for its leadership in the concept of art in the living environment.

Western pioneered the concept of collecting art for outdoor enhancement, as well as the first to use the money from the construction budget of new buildings to purchase art.

During the early 1960s, Barney Goltz, of the university planning office created a general policy, which called for a portion of construction money to be used to buy art.

"The interesting thing about this is that Western started its policy before the state did," said Sarah Clark-Langager, director of the Western Gallery. "It's now a state law that 1/2 of one percent of money in state construction must go toward art. So, we really are known as leaders."

Not just any work of art may have the privilege of being added to the collection.

"We have focused our collection from 1960 forward," said Clark-Langager. "We go through a very lengthy process of deciding who the appropriate artists are and whose work can go outdoors.

"We look at artists who have obtained national prominence in the art field before we can include them in our collection."

The art in Western's collection isn't just placed anywhere on campus after its completion.

"We work very closely with the artists to find a place to put their work," Clark-Langager said.

In many cases, the intention of the artist is that if their work were removed from a particular site, the piece would no longer exist. In that sense, many of the works are site-specific.

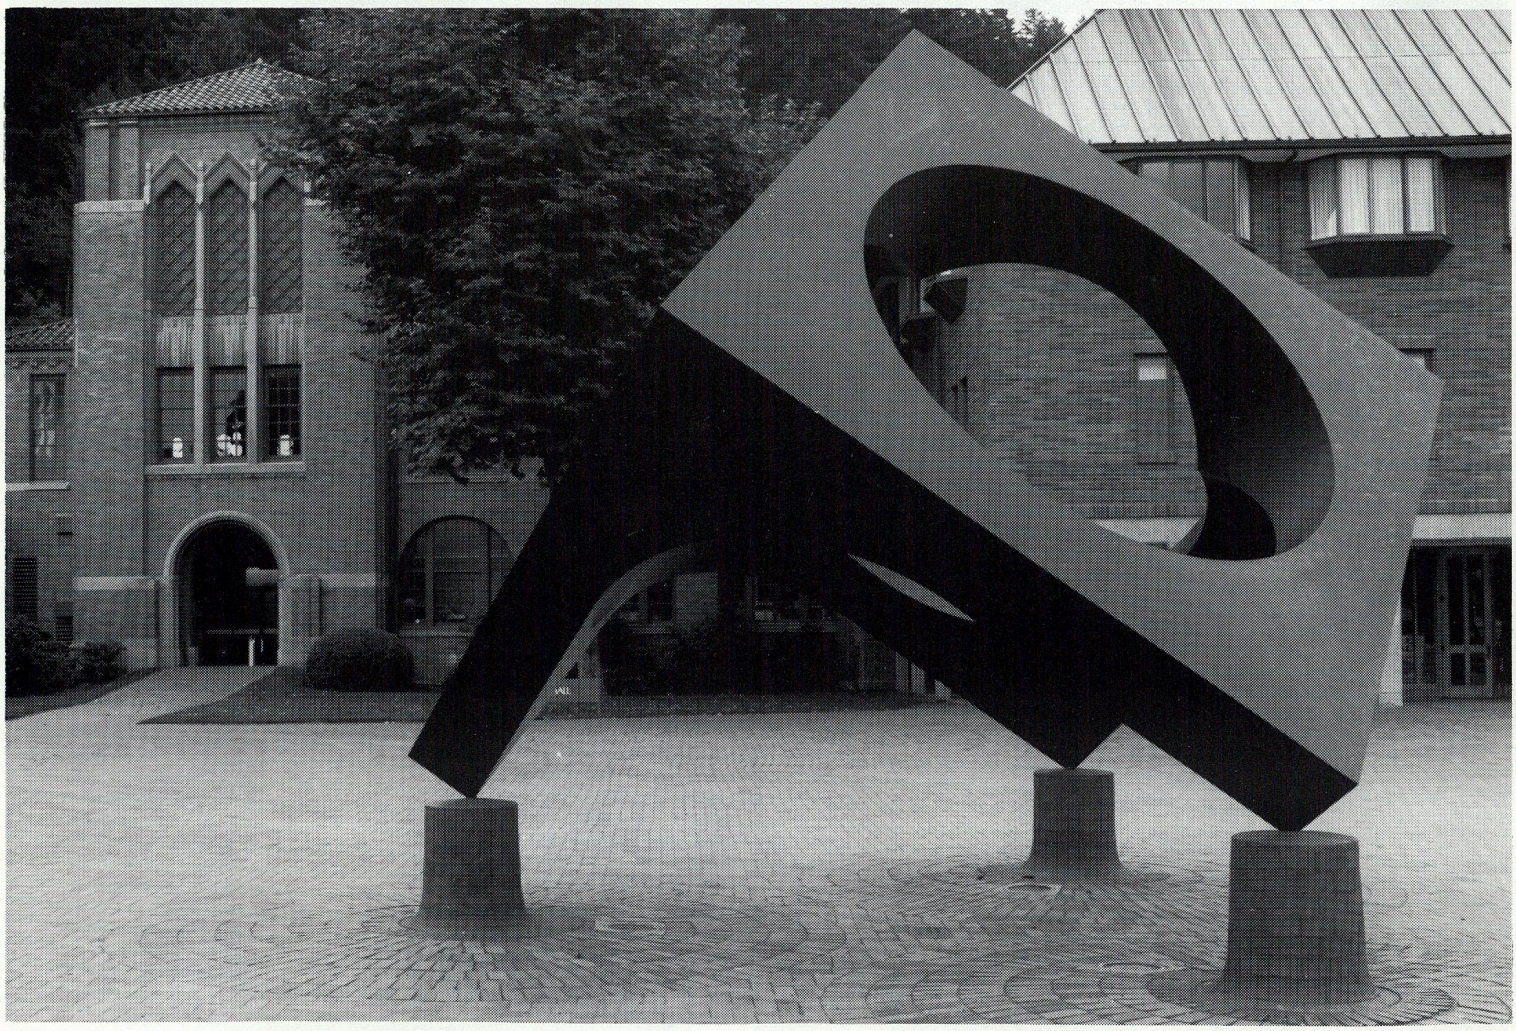

In general, most of the works came into the collection through money from contruction or from gifts, Clark-Langager said.

Perhaps the most notable work on campus is Isamu Noguchi's 12,000-pound Skyviewing Sculpture. The late Noguchi was known as one of the world's foremost contemporary sculptors.

A major contributor over the years has been Virginia Wright, an internationally-known art collector in Seattle. She has donated several major works, including For Handel by Mark di Suvero that is located in front of the Performing Arts Center.

Another way work has come into the collection is through general workshops under the auspices of the art department. Log Ramps on the south end of campus was conceived as a class project by Lloyd Hamrol, who was a visiting professor when it was constructed in 1974.

Plans are being made by the Western Gallery for an acoustiguide (self-guided tour with the aid of a headset) and a catalog to further promote the collection, which already is regarded as one of the finest on the west coast.

KEEP YOUR OWN STATISTICS

Every football fan knows that the score doesn't always give a good picture of a game. A few statistics, like those that can be kept on this page, can make the picture clearer, show what the individual stars contribute and help to win post-game "debates." Besides, it can be fun to second guess the official scorer whose statistics will appear in tomorrow's papers. But before you start, here are some pointers on being a statistician:

1. Keep cumulative totals to be informed "up to the minute" and to simplify our figuring of team totals. Example: Jones gains 3, 6, 9, 2 yards and you write 3, 9, 18, 20 on his line.

2. Be satisfied if you come within 10-15 yards of the official team totals. Individual judgments as to the line of scrimmage can make quite a difference in the totals.

3. Remember that it takes 10 yards to make a first down—that last inch can be as important as a yard and must be scored as one. Wait until the official places the ball and then go by the official down/yard marker on the sidelines.

4. Be sure to credit first downs on scoring plays originating from lines of scrimmage beyond the 10-yard line.

5. On plays involving penalties measured from the point of the foul, credit the rusher or pass receiver with yardage only to the point of the infraction.

6. Charge gains and losses on fumbles to the player who, in your judgment, contributed most to the error.

7. Don't score two-point conversion attempts after touchdowns as rushing or passing plays.

Georgia-Pacific invests in people.

Georgia-Pacific believes that an investment in technology is an investment in people. It's the only way to remain competitive in the rapidly changing forest products industry.

We've added computer technology to all of our paper and wood products mills. Computers now scan logs to determine the most efficient cuts and uses.

Our computers also identify mechanical and electrical malfunctions and show how to fix them. These kinds of innovations have greatly improved speed, accuracy and productivity.

By investing in tomorrow today, we protect our future. And the future of our employees.
